GOODHUE—LOCKARD.

On Wednesday June 12th, at twelve o'clock, noon, the words were spoken that united Mr. Samuel Amory Goodhue and Miss Jennie Lapet Lockard as man and wife. The bride is a daughter of Mr. J. K. Lockard of Bloomsburg, and the bridegroom is General Manager of the Union Tanning Co. at Jamison City. A large and fashionable audience of invited guests gathered at the Presbyterian church at the appointed hour, and before the arrival of the bridal party they were entertained by selections of music skillfully played by Miss Maude Runyon, on the organ, including the Swedish wedding march, and Pilgrim's chorus from "Tannhauser." The church was beautifully decorated with palms and ferns and flowers. The bridal party entered promptly at the appointed hour, to the Old English Wedding March. The ushers, Messrs. Sidney Miner, John D. Farnham, Samuel C. Chase of Wilkes-Barre, and Grover Flint of Petersham, Mass., entered first and passed down the central aisle, taking their places at the side of the altar. The bridesmaids, Misses Eleanor and Maude Patterson, of Bloomsburg, Alice B. and Sarah Goodhue, sisters of the bridegroom, of Salem, Mass., entered the door at the left of the altar and proceeded up to the entrance aisle, where they met the Maid of Honor, Miss Leatha Lockard, sister of the bride, and the bride on the arm of her father, who entered from the porte-cochere door. Proceeding down the central aisle, they met the bridegroom and his best man, Mr. William Reynolds Ricketts of Wilkes-Barre, who entered from the door at the right of the altar. The ceremony was performed by the pastor, Rev. I. M. Patterson.

The bride wore a gown of ivory white satin trimmed with point lace. The bridesmaids and Maid of Honor were attired in white organdie over white taffeta, and carried flowers.

After the ceremony the bridal party retired from the church to the inspiring strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March, and a reception was held at the residence of the bride's parents, where an elaborate wedding breakfast was served. The house was beautifully decorated with plants and flowers for the occasion.

The array of presents showed a very large number of exquisite and costly articles. It is said to be one of the most beautiful assortments of gifts ever received by a bride in Bloomsburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Goodhue departed on the 2:36 D. L. & W. train for an extended tour, followed by the best wishes of a host of friends.

Among the out of town guests were the father, mother, two sisters and brother of Mr. Goodhue; Chas. F. Allen, all of Salem, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Hicks and Miss Minnie Landis of Hummelstown, Pa.; Miss Jane Hicks, Mr. and Mrs. John Simpson of Scranton; Mr. and Mrs. Clough of Lynn, Mass.; Mrs. S. P. Hanly, Misses Katharine Jackson and Marie Brockway of Berwick; Miss Ada Hicks of Bach Haven; Miss Martz of Evansville; Mr. and Mrs. Clough of Salem, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Gruver of Nanticoke; L. B. Howell and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. L. Pfleager, J. T. Brady, Edw. Flinn, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Kennedy, E. I. Mack, Mr. and Mrs. John Miller, and E. J. Drum of Jamison City; Edw. W. Walton, Philadelphia.

Children's Day in Trinity Reformed Church.

A large crowd assembled in Trinity Reformed Church last Sunday evening to witness the Children's Day exercises by the Sunday School. The church was nicely decorated with flowers and ferns. The programme was one of the prettiest and most interesting ever rendered by this school. Everything passed off very nicely. There was not a failure in the entire exercise. Those who took part in the services and those who had charge of the preparation deserve much praise for the efficient manner in which they did their work. Everyone who was present left well pleased with what was seen and heard, and the service will long be remembered by all.

Mrs. I. W. Barnes, president of the State Primary Teachers' Union, who is sent by the Sunday School Association of Pennsylvania, will lecture in the M. E. church at Asbury, June 18, at 2 p. m., and in the M. E church at Stillwater on the evening of the same date. Sunday school workers, especially p. mary teachers, should not fail to attend. A contribution for the benefit of the state will be lifted.

The public schools of Bloomsburg have attained a high standard, and the credit is due to Principal L. P. Sterner and the efficient corps of teachers, and to the good judgment and excellent supervision of the school board composed of the following gentlemen: J. C. Brown, R. R. Little, Jos. Garrison, J. K. Bittenbender, J. R. Townsend and Ephraim Rinker.

The Tent Campaign

Was inaugurated by the Young Men's Christian Association last Sunday. The attendance at the men's meeting was large and the meeting was pronounced a success. Rev. R. M. Miller, of Reading, Gen'l. Secretary of the Sunday School Board of the Reformed Church, made a most excellent address. The move of the Association in pushing out on this line of work received many favorable comments. The program for next Sabbath is not completed, but it promises to be a rich one. Sunday a week Mr. J. W. Dean, the quaker Evangelist, will address the meeting. The music at these services is a feature; the Y. M. C. A. orchestra is developing into one of the best musical organizations in the town.

The interest in the Association during this year has been splendid, and we expect it will continue. The attendance at the rooms daily has averaged over 100; Prayer, cottage and jail meetings have been held with gratifying results. The attendance at the Men's meeting, Sunday afternoon is an indication of the interest in the work. During the first five months of 1894 the attendance was 1843; during the past five months of 1895 the attendance reached 3973, just 27 short of four thousand. Let everybody encourage the work, all the time they can, in every way they can.

Keep Your Eye on the Nail.

Engagement of the peoples' popular little soubrette Cora Van Tassell and her superb company of players including the Rocky Mountain string band and the Sand Hill Quartette, who will appear at the Opera House for two nights and Saturday matinee, commencing Friday, June 14th with change of bill at each performance, opening with Scott Marble's beautiful western Idyl, the most successful comedy-drama of the season, "Tennessee's Pardner." The following is from the Boston Sunday Globe: During the past week the dainty little comedienne Cora Van Tassell has accomplished more in the way of winning hosts of admirers on her first week in Boston than many of the older stars have accomplished in years. Her play "Tennessee's Pardner," is a charming western story full of quaint characterizations drawn from the author's memory from the people he came in contact with while a resident of the mountains. The supporting company is exceptionally strong proving all that could be desired in the parts intrusted to them, and they held the audience throughout the four acts without an instant's cessation while the alternation between pathos and humor keeps the listeners between tears and laughter.

SCHOOL WORK.

There is now on exhibition in the High School room a large display of work done by the pupils of the public schools. It embraces specimens of penmanship, drawing, designing, claymoulding, kindergarten work, &c. One table is devoted to a display arranged by pupils of the Third street school, and it is very amusing as well as interesting. The entire display reflects great credit on both teachers and pupils. It is open to the public inspection, and every citizen of Bloomsburg should see it.

The band gave another enjoyable concert in front of the Court House on Saturday evening.

THE FABLE OF THE EGG.

A THESIS ON ITS VAULE AS A HEALTH FOOD.

William S. Ely, M. D., of Rochester, N. Y., Gives Some Interesting Particulars of the Use of the Egg as an Aid to Medicine in His Practice.

I offer a note on the free use of eggs as food, in selected cases of acute and chronic disease.

Some four years ago, a neurasthenic patient in a private room, at the Rochester City Hospital, upbraided me, after six weeks of treatment by rest, massage, electricity, and, what I then thought, liberal feeding, affirming that she was no stronger than when she first came under my care. Medicinal tonics only increased her nervous irritability and depression. I then began to increase her food up to the point of tolerance, administering the same at intervals of two hours, night and day. After a few days I discarded all medicine and succeeded in giving sixteen raw eggs and four quarts of milk every twenty-four hours. Improvement was soon apparent with marked gain in weight; and complete convalescence followed in eight weeks.

For many years the tolerance of the human stomach for food in certain conditions of acute and chronic disease, had been noted by me. The case briefly outlined, again called attention to the subject, and repeated observations have proven that the stomach and digestive tract in many cases of illness can be systematically trained to receive and assimilate a surprisingly large amount of liquid food, far exceeding that which in health would be tolerated. While it is a matter of common practice to give milk and broth freely in many cases not all physicians have prescribed raw eggs for their patients in the numbers which have been well borne and apparently conducive to recovery. My plea is, therefore, not for the egg—the value of which as food is universally admitted—but for its administration in selected cases in numbers which may to some appear fabulous. Philosophers are not agreed about the doctrine, "omne vivum ex ove," and I may add that it is not yet determined to what extent life can be sustained by the egg. Those oft quoted experiments upon the stomach of Alexis St. Martin, prove that the raw egg is one of the most readily digested articles of diet. It is almost always at hand, may be had clean and uncontaminated, and does not require the sterilization now demanded for milk. Can you think of any more concentrated food, or of any equivalent for the two ounces of nutriment of the average egg? Besides milk and beef juice, I have frequently prescribed a raw egg an hour—twenty-four whole eggs a day—in serious conditions of nervous exhaustion; and in the progress of pneumonia, diphtheria and fevers marked by high temperature and rapid waste. This number is at times well borne, and has often lessened the necessity for alcoholic stimulants. Eggs may be taken in various ways, soft boiled, shaken with milk, but most easily, I think, raw, from a tumbler in which they are freshly dropped from the shell. The patient is instructed to swallow the yolk, enveloped in its membrane, and floating in its albumen. Passing over the tongue, the yolk elongates, fits the pharynx and oesophagus in the act of swallowing, and the mouth is left clean and free from any taste. Some moral force on the part of the patient, nurse and doctor, may be required to overcome a repugnance to the treatment referred to. As a rule, I have had no difficulty in making my patients amenable to my will in the matter. He is the most successful physician, generally speaking, who wills his patient to do what he deems necessary in the serious emergencies of sickness. This is the "mind cure," and the "faith cure," in which I emphatically believe.

With the numerous lengthy clinical records bearing on the administration of eggs in numbers which may be thought fabulous, I do not purpose to weary you. Briefest reference to a few cases at the present time must suffice.

Mrs. H.—Nerasthenia, aggravated case of long standing, took fifteen eggs and one gallon of milk daily, for six weeks.—Recovery.

Mrs. M.—Similar case, took twenty-four eggs and a gallon of milk and chocolate daily for eight weeks.—Recovery.

Mrs. B.—Wife of an intelligent physician. Extreme neurasthenia; mental depression marked; insanity feared; treatment begun at Rochester City Hospital, 1892. Medicines discarded as worse than useless; eggs milk and chocolate, systematically administered by day and night nurse; improvement slow; patient after ten weeks taken home where the treatment was continued. Her husband wrote me in October of her complete recovery, and stated that from September 3, 1892, to September 3, 1893, she had taken 3,006 eggs. He felt certain that they had been an important factor in the recovery of a case with a dark outlook.

Miss V.—Advanced consumption, 1891.—Hectic fever. Taken from bed where she had been confined for months, and placed in a bed in a specially constructed carriage, the object being to keep her out of door as many hours daily as possible. Eggs and milk were pushed to the point of tolerance. She gradually gained weight and strength, sat up and drove herself and carried her food in the carriage. She took fifteen eggs daily for a year—5,475 in 365 days. Her treatment has now gone on for over three years—the eggs lessened in the past year. She coughs constantly, and has advanced tubercular disease—might be said to be a saturated tubercular patient, kept alive by an indomitable will power and by a heroism in living out of doors in all kinds of weather, and in taking food in amounts that have astonished me. As to eggs she has been an exemplary patient.

Miss F.—Consumption. Fifteen to twenty-four eggs daily, marked improvement in weight and strength.

Miss B.—Severe case of typhoid fever, pulse 130, temperature 104 degrees for several days. Beginning with eggs and milk, the amounts of each were gradually increased until thirty-six eggs and five quarts of milk were taken in twenty-four hours, and this amount of food was taken daily for one week, then gradually reduced as fever subsided.—Recovery.

Many cases similar to above might be given, but those cited will furnish an idea of the varied disorders in which eggs are tolerated.

It is to be understood that in every instance they have been used for their supporting and restorative influence. In proportion as they have been well borne, stimulants have been found unnecessary. Milk, chocolate and broth, and such medication as was indicated, have been prescribed in connection with eggs. Although some patients have died while taking eggs, I can think of no case in which death was due to their liberal use. It is certain that numerous patients have recovered from serious and alarming illness, or their lives have been definitely prolonged by taking eggs. The best test of their nutritive value is not their chemical analysis in the laboratory, but their vital chemistry shown in their tissue building capacity, for out of them are rapidly constructed the cartilage muscle nervous and vascular systems, and all of the varied structures which enter into the composition of a large class of feathered vertebrates, ranking in nature next to the mammalia.

If you give eggs to your patients, do not be chicken-hearted in their employment. Do not fear the production of albuminuria from the ingestion of a large amount of egg albumen. In the case of typhoid fever referred to, acute nephritis coexisted, and the albumen and casts disappeared from the the urine while thirty-six eggs a day were being taken.

In many other cases, tests of urine showed no albuminuria with the "egg an hour" practice. It will generally be found impossible to give eggs freely without the aid of a trained nurse.

So far as results are concerned, I would rather deal with a poor stomach managed by a good nurse, than with a good stomach under the direction of a weak unmethodical nurse, who could not give a moral propulsion to her food and medicine. Often the treatment must be pursued with the regularity of a time-table by night as well as by day.

Notwithstanding all possible efforts, nausea and vomiting and diarrhoea may often be produced, and the physician may be thwarted in his object. He will then try the white of eggs alone, variously combined, or will suspend them altogether. I have given the whites of forty-eight eggs daily for many days to a patient in the critical stages of Typhoid fever.

Please remember that I am not advocating a fad, specific, or "cure all," nor suggesting any original or untried method, nor urging the indiscriminate administration of an article of diet to your patients. They may be only a small number of physicians present who have not appreciated the nutritive value of the egg liberally administered. I am addressing them, and I would urge that in some of their chronic cases of exhausted nerve centres, and in those acute critical cases which from time to time come under their care, and tax their resources for maintaining life until diseased processes can expend themselves they should throw away their tonics, and possibly stimulants, and should gradually lead the stomachs of their patients up to the egg an hour practice.

Gentlemen, the early Christians saw in the egg, the symbol of the Resurrection, and this symbol may be converted into a veritable Easter for some of your patients, by what at first thought some may deem the fabulous Resurrection power of the egg.

GARDEN AND ORCHARD.

Look well into the young nursery stock. Many diseases of trees are brought into the orchard from the nursery at the time the young trees are purchased.

Put in the early beets and parsnips as soon as the ground permits. They are crops that never should be delayed, and should also be forced by the liberal use of manure.

Crisp radishes are obtained by forcing them to grow rapidly. Put the seed in rich ground that was heavily manured last year, and work the soil deep and fine before planting the seed.

The recent misfortune to Southern truck farms by the frosts will probably raise prices for fruits and vegetables in this region. Our Northern growers shall endeavor to get their produce in market as early as possible.

Pear trees that are forced to grow rapidly from the start are more liable to be affected by blight than those that come on more slowly. For that reason a crop of grass, grown in the pear orchard occasionally, has been beneficial.

The flower garden should be cultivated by the women of the family, using light tools, as they take more interest in flowers than do the men. An hour's work outdoors every day will improve the health. Anything that will induce outdoor exercise should be accepted.

The supposition that an orchard will thrive with small applications of fertilizers has deprived farmers of fields which would have been possible with a larger amount of plant food. What is most desirable in orchards is potash, and it will not be extravagant to apply as much as 1,000 pounds per acre.

Green peas are readily salable at all seasons of the year. Recently one of the largest vessels that ever came into Philadelphia brought hundreds of tons of canned "French" peas from England. They did not differ in the least from the kind grown in this country every year. Why cannot farmers grow peas in large quantities for canning purposes. By co-operative effort an outfit for canning peas could be introduced in every community, not only providing a profit to growers but also affording employment to many in picking and hulling the peas.

ABOUT THE FARM.

Milking machines continue to be patented, but none of them appear to have come into general use.

The dairyman commits an injurious act against his fellowmen when he leaves the carcass of a dead animal unburied in the cow pasture, or daily milks with manure-begrimed hand.

Doolitte says in Gleanings that if you give a prolific queen eight frames and then increase as she needs them to thirty frames, she'll lay 5,000 to 6,000 eggs daily through most of the laying season and die at eighteen to twenty months old.

To keep or get the weevil out of garden seed, pour a little coal oil (kerosene) in the seed box among the packages. It won't injure the growing qualities of the seed, but it "demoralizes" the bugs.

A colt should never be otherwise than gentle and accustomed to halter, bridle and saddle, cart, sled, or harrow from the time he is a month old. Let the children train him, but don't call it the boy's colt and when grown "father's horse."

A tree growing in a good, rich soil is much more certain of yielding a good crop of fruit under all conditions than the same kind of a tree growing in a thin or worn out soil; and if good fruit is grown it will pay to use or apply sufficient fertilizers to keep in a good condition.

Late fruit is obtained by mulching the strawberries heavily in the winter and keeping it on late in the spring, and this could hardly be obtained in any other way. Do not make the covering so heavy that the plants will rot, neither put it on until the ground freezes.

Strawberries are the best of all berries. Every man that owns a piece of land should have a patch of strawberries. If your children cry for them will you give them salt pork? Strawberries should be set in May and ground bone and wood ashes make the best fertilizers.—Prof. Munson.

Oats may be used as a portion of the ration for poultry the year round, and especially for the large Asiatic varieties that are predisposed to put on an excess of fat when fed in the ordinary way. But we would recommend that the oats be good and sound, and first class in quality, otherwise they will not do as a constant food.

Wood ashes is a fertilizer particularly adapted to dry weather. In dry seasons no fertilizer produces better results on strawberries or potatoes. As we cannot forecast the season, it is a satisfaction to know that they have no bad effect should the season be wet. This is one of the things which can be used on almost any crop, on any land, at any time.

When plants are not mulched the cool night air of the early spring, even if it does not check growth, does not advance it. A mulch admits air, warmth and moisture, and shuts out scorching sun and blighting wind. It also prevents the escape of fertilizing gases. It collects the heat rays of the sun and retains them for the warmth and growth of the plant during the night season.

It has been ascertained by and extended series of experiments that rye and winter wheat will germinate in soil, the temperature of which is as low as thirty-two degrees. Barley, oats, flax, clover and peas will sprout at thirty-five degrees. The turnip is as cold-blooded as the rye and winter wheat, but the carrot needs thirty-eight degrees, and the bean forty degrees before they will make the initial effort to send the life-shoot in search of air and light.

Experiments show that sheep of seven to ten months old can be made to gain fourteen pounds for every 100 pounds of digestible material consumed, while those of eighteen months old will make a gain of but five pounds. It is difficult to get a profit from feeding old sheep, and any sheep can be made to gain as much in ten weeks as is usually done in five months. There is but one way to success.

Feed nothing but pure, sweet, clean, wholesome food. Anything which gives a taint or bad flavor to milk should not be given to cows. If a taint or flavor in the milk is caused by food it will be at its worst when drawn from the cow; if caused by some fermentation it will grow worse as the milk is kept. The remedy for the latter is cleanliness. Use scalding water in washing the utensils and strainers.

Care of Stock.

The slip-shod methods of stock caring by old-fashioned farmers are best shown by their losses of early lambs. Sheep were not bred to lamb until late and even then it was expected as a matter of course that more or less lambs would perish from cold. Now, good farmers have their ewes lamb in midwinter and both ewe and lamb are sheltered so warmly in basement stables that very few are lost. Sheep growers are now breeding improved kinds of sheep, which have the habit of dropping twins, and occasionally triplets. The twin lamb needs some extra feeding, but when sold in early spring he well pays for this, while in olden time one and sometimes both of the twin lambs would be allowed to perish in the cold.

Raising Onions.

Over 600 bushels of onions have been grown on an acre of land, yet 300 bushels make a good crop. They require work from the start, and the cost of labor will be quite an item. They entail too much expense for ordinary farmers. Yet, when we look at the receipts, an acre of onions will produce more in bushels than ten or fifteen acres of wheat, and sell for twice as much per bushel.

Raise Strawberries.

Prof. Troop says that 12 rows of strawberries, 50 feet long, will give an abundance for any farmer's family. Such a bed ought to yield over 600 quarts of berries, or 20 quarts a day for days. But very few families can find use for such quantities, and yet the space called for is only 40 by 50 feet. What farmer is there who cannot afford that small space to cultivate it?

HARRISBURG LETTER.

A Long Deadlock Before the Final Adjournment.

AN APPROPRIATION IS REFUSED.

The House Declines to Allow the Penrose Investigation Committee Twenty Thousand Dollars for Expenses, but This Will Not Prevent the Work from Proceeding.

(Special Correspondence.)

HARRISBURG, June 10.—After one of the most memorable deadlocks on the eve of the final adjournment, the senate, early Saturday morning, was compelled to recede from the amendment to the general appropriation bill setting aside $20,000 for the expenses of the Penrose committee to investigate the municipal affairs of Philadelphia.

That the attempt to stifle the proposed investigation will prove abortive was emphasized late in the afternoon by the organization of the committee and the authoritative announcement that the investigation would be proceeded with. The committee met in room 116 of the Lochiel hotel, the senators remaining over in order that the committee might be put in position for work at as early a date as possible. All of the senators were present, as follows: William H. Andrews, John C. Grady, E. B. Hardenburg, C. Wesley Thomas, S. J. M. McCarrell and Arthur Kennedy. Senator Penrose was present by invitation. The meeting was held in executive session, but it is no secret that nearly every one of the members made sizzling speeches announcing their determination to push the probe in as far as it will go.

William H. Andrews for Chairman.

The committee organized by the selection of William H. Andrews as chairman and C. Wesley Thomas as secretary. On motion of Senator Grady the chairman was instructed to engage competent council to assist the committee, to secure one or more stenographers and to look after the necessary clerk hire. On motion of Senator Kennedy the chairman was instructed to have 2,000 subpœnas printed. Although no announcement was made of the fact it is known that Silas W. Pettit, of Philadelphia, is to be the counsel of the committee. He will be instructed to prepare the necessary papers in the case and will have everything in shape for the meetings of the committee. The committee adjourned to meet at the call of the chair.

If the opponents of the Penrose committee thought they would smother the investigation by their action they are very much mistaken. Senator Penrose is authority for the statement that the committee means business. It is not after money, and the tall Philadelphian startled the jobbers by saying that if it were necessary for the life of the committee he would make out his personal check for any amount of money needed.

While the committee adjourned to meet at the call of the chair, it was agreed that the next meeting should be held in Harrisburg in the early part of August. By that time it was thought all the details could be arranged and the committee be prepared at once to plunge into the investigation.

The Beginning of the Deadlock.

Early Friday evening it was evident that the house and senate would become involved in a deadlock over the general appropriation bill. The fight began when the house objected to the two senate items in the bill—one for $20,000 to pay the expenses of the Penrose committee and the other one for $15,000 for the expenses of the committee appointed under the Kennedy resolution to inquire into the management of the public schools of the state.

The anti-Quay faction in the house, it seems, had for several days been setting up the job to defeat this appropriation. When the house had refused to concur in the amendments to the general appropriation bill, including the two investigation items, Speaker Walton named Messrs. Riter, of Philadelphia; Marshall, of Allegheny, and Collins, of Lycoming, as the conferees of the house, while President Thomas selected Messrs. Penrose, Andrews and Grady on the part of the senate. It was only necessary for the conference committee to get together to appreciate the hopelessness of their coming together. Three times during the course of the night was the house called to order to hear the report of the conferees, and three times it sent them back to conference, with instructions to maintain the hostile position of the house.

At 6 o'clock the house met again, when Mr. Marshall, from the committee, reported that the senate had made these two propositions—that it would reduce the item for the Penrose committee from $50,000 to $15,000, and that for the Kennedy school committee from $15,000 to $5,000.

An inflammatory speech from Mr. Riter caused the rejection of this. Finally the senate receded from its position, but this was not done until Senator Penrose had made one of the most sensational and eloquent speeches of the session. He practically said that money was being used to shut off the investigation.

Penrose Assails Flinn.

When the senate reassembled to hear the report of the conference committee Senator Flinn made the mistake of saying the investigating committee was unimportant. Penrose was on his feet in an instant. Although greatly fatigued by the work of an all night session, he talked with the fire and energy of a man in the pink of condition. His eyes flashed fire, and the rosy cheeks of Senator Flinn paled at the volcano of fiery words that were hurled at him. He declared that he had offered to draw his personal check for any decrease the committee might make in the amount asked for, and that he had information from Philadelphia which assured him there would be no trouble in raising the full amount if the legislature refused an appropriation.

As Senator Penrose proceeded he grew more emphatic. He said in part:

"The appropriation for the New York investigation committee was obstructed in a similar manner, but it only resulted in arousing popular vengeance and returning tenfold upon the heads of those who attempted to prevent it. This investigation cannot be prevented. My only desire in obtaining an appropriation from the state was that the committee would be independent in its action, and more under the control of the chairman and the members of the committee than if it were supported by private enterprise. That is a matter for this legislature to judge, but as far as I am concerned it is a matter of perfect indifference whether this legislature chooses to vote one cent for it or not.

"But for the gentleman from Allegheny to say that it is an unimportant matter, when it is the chief subject of dead lock between the houses, when it has been lobbied against in the house, is ridiculous and false. The public will understand it. And if I desired the committee to efficiently carry out its purpose which I contemplated in introducing it I would want no better contribution to my cause than what I have witnessed here tonight. I will not stultify myself by serving further on this committee, which may be instructed to recede from its present position."

The reference of Senator Penrose to lobbying in the house against the appropriations, which was evidently directed against Senator Flinn, brought the latter to his feet in reply before the Philadelphia senator could resume his seat. The Pittsburger's usually ruddy face burned with a deeper red and his eyes had a look that nobody in the senate had ever seen there before during this session. Senator Flinn sits immediately behind Senator Penrose, and as he spoke he leaned over until his face was within three feet of that of the Philadelphian's, who had turned half way round in his chair and listened with unmoved countenance to what was said. It was the most startling, dramatic episode of the senate for a dozen years.

Senator Flinn Responds.

"I do not believe that the house was biased by anybody," said Senator Flinn deliberately. "I do not believe that anybody could control the house on this question. The gentleman has tried to make it appear that I have tried to control the house on this question," and Senator Flinn leaned over and pointed a long forefinger at Senator Penrose. "When the gentleman says I am speaking falsely, I hurl back in his face the insinuation. In taking the stand that I have on this measure I am only standing up for my convictions and my belief. And when the Senator from Philadelphia comes here and charges me with trying to set up the house, he belittles that body. I do not believe I could set them up if I tried; I do not believe the senator from Philadelphia can."

The final vote was taken in the house, and was on the motion of Mr. Bolles, of Philadelphia, to reinstruct the committee to stand out against the appropriation.

On this the yeas and nays were called and the Quay and anti-Quay forces were lined up for a square count for the first time during this memorable struggle. The Quay people voted no, the anti-Quay people voted yea.

The result was 89 yeas to 57 nays, a decisive victory for the anti-Quay element in the house, considering that nearly sixty members were absent, which would have increased the strength of the anti-Quay forces.

The senate in the meantime had suspended joint rule eight, which required all bills and resolutions to be in the hands of the governor by 8 o'clock. Had this not been done and the house persisted in its stand there would have been no time to print the conference committee's report, the general appropriation bill would have failed and an extra session would have been a necessity. But at 7.15 Lieutenant Governor Lyon hurried into the house and notified General Jerome B. Niles that if the house would pass rule eight, extending the session, that the senate would recede from its position in demanding the Lexow appropriation and the battle would be brought to a close. The house immediately passed the resolution and adjourned until 10 o'clock. That was the end of the battle.

Lexow Appropriations Stricken Out.

At 10 o'clock both house and senate reconvened. The senate had done as agreed. The Lexow appropriations were stricken from the bill and the general appropriation bill passed by unanimous vote in both branches, and an extra session was averted.

In the senate the majority report of the committee unseating Mr. Laubach and seating Mr. Heller was adopted, and Mr. Heller took the oath of office. Then followed the usual votes of thanks, and the senate adjourned sine die.

The final adjournment of the house was preceded by the presentation of a horse and buggy to Representative Lawrence, of Washington, and a beautiful silver service to Speaker Walton.

The result of the fight has left a bitter feeling among the rival Republican factions, of which the hot and sensational set-to between Senators Penrose and Flinn was but a moderate illustration. It is confidently predicted by a close political observer that this is practically the beginning of probably the fiercest political battle ever waged within party lines in Pennsylvania, with the Magee-Flinn forces in the west, the Martin-Porter followers in Philadelphia, the state administration and the Pennsylvania railroad all arrayed against Senators Quay and Cameron.

The Kennedy resolution, the other day, for a senatorial investigation of the school system gave those who control the house machinery their opportunity. The idea of offering a similar resolution was proposed by Speaker Walton, and it was his influence which secured the change in the order of business allowing it to be introduced. The whole tenor of the arguments in favor of the resolution was against the senate for presuming to go into such a scheme by itself and tending to inflame the minds of the members against the senate under the guise of maintaining the dignity of the house. None of those back of the resolution had any idea that it could pass, but they accomplished their purpose of stirring up ill feeling. When the amendments came over the same cry was again raised, and a Democrat, Representative Fow, was selected to lead the opposition.

The "Dignity of the House."

Some of the best speakers were given the tip to get up and "pitch into the senate," and General Niles and others responded. Under the pressure, and the reiteration of the instructions to stand firm, it was seen that if the fight was prolonged, it must inevitably result in an extra session, because of the failure of the general appropriation bill. To avoid that great expense to the state the senate conferees agreed to recede from both the amendments making appropriations to the investigating committee, and the deadlock was broken.

The contest over these appropriations, together with the hard feeling engendered by the seating of Heller in Senator Laubach's place, has aided in materially widening the breach between the factions in the Republican party, and there is every indication that the next two years will witness some of the most exciting contests in the history of political parties in this state.

Within a few hours after the appropriation had been defeated the committee had been notified by telegraph from Philadelphia that subscriptions to twice the amount asked for could be had at any moment. It is said that one public spirited citizen offered, in case of necessity, to put his hand in his pocket and pay the entire expenses of the investigation. Thus assured of ample funds, the committee began preparations for a determined fight. W. M. R.

WASHINGTON.

From our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, June 7, 1895.

President Cleveland surprised a great many people when he tendered the Secretaryship of State to Attorney General Olney, but there was nothing surprising about it to those who are familiar with the workings of the administration. On the contrary, it appears to them to have been the logical thing to do. Attorney General Olney is thoroughly familiar with the foreign policy of the government. Indeed, it is not stretching the truth to say that he had a hand in the formulation of that policy, as he was in constant consultation with President Cleveland and the late Secretary Gresham whenever any important move was contemplated. What then was more natural than that he should be selected to fill the vacancy? He is thoroughly familiar with all the unfinished negotiations now pending with various countries, more so than an able outsider could possibly become after months of study. It is altogether probable that Mr. Olney would have preferred remaining at the head of the Department of Justice had he considered it merely as a question of personal preference.

Secretary Carlisle will return to Kentucky to deliver the speech which was postponed on account of Secretary Gresham's death, and it is possible that he may while there make other speeches. The news from Kentucky is not altogether pleasing to democrats who desire the success of the party. The republicans of the state are said to be enthusiastic over their prospects of success, which would not exist if the democrats were united as they ought to be. There have been several conferences of prominent democrats to discuss ways and means for bringing the democrats together, not only in Kentucky but in other states where there seems to be a disposition to think there are enough democrats to form two parties.

Gen. A. L. New, of Denver, who is collector of internal revenue for the district composed of the states of Colorado and Wyoming, and who is one of the most popular democrats of his section is in Washington on official business. Speaking of the political situation he said: "If Colorado keeps on increasing her gold output in the same ratio that she has of late, I wouldn't be surprised to see her classed as a single standard gold state within five years. The discoveries of the yellow metal at Leadville and Cripple Creek have been astonishing, and the people are gradually ceasing to talk about the demonetization of silver. I doubt very seriously whether the democrats could carry the state in the Presidential election for a free silver candidate."

The opinion is general among democrats who come from New York and Brooklyn that the voters in those towns have had quite enough of the professional reformers and will restore the control to the democrats at the next election. Mr. W. H. Belford of the latter City says: "In Brooklyn there is deep disgust at the way things are run. On Sundays the whiskey shops are in full blast, yet it is impossible for a man to get shaved. The conditions are ripe for a return of the democrats to power on both sides of the East River, and if they put up good candidates they will win without any trouble."

"Look out for a big row at Cleveland," remarked a prominent republican who occasionally gives a newspaper man a pointer. He was referring to the National convention of the Republican National League, which begins a three days session at Cleveland, Ohio, on the 16th inst. And well he might say look out for a big row. One is certainly brewing, and nothing but the most careful management can avoid it. It has been clear for some time that an attempt would be made to commit the convention on the silver question; also to use it to boom one of the quartette of leading aspirants for the republican Presidential nomination. Unless both of these attempts can be sidetracked a fight that may result in splitting the republican party seems inevitable.

President Cleveland this week removed from office Mr. Charles B. Morton, Auditor of the Treasury for the Navy Department. No official explanation has been made, but it is understood that the removal was in part brought about by letters written by Mr. Morton in which the names of President Cleveland and Secretary Carlisle were used in disrespectful manner. It is probable also that a long line of difficulties which Mr. Morton has had with naval officials, about which Secretary Herbert had complained to the President had something to do with it; likewise some deals reported to have been made by Mr. Morton in connection with Federal offices in Maine.

That tired feeling, loss of appetite and nervous prostration are driven away by Hood's Sarsaparilla, which makes pure blood.

The Doctor wishes the public to understand that he is not soliciting the ordinary run of cases, but desires just such diseases to treat that other physicians cannot succeed with or at least fail to cure. When you suffer from such consult HIM (consultation is free), have him thoroughly diagnose your case, and then what he tells you can be relied upon as a fact beyond refutation. Some may say, "Why go to Dr. MacTaggart when we have as good doctors here as anywhere?" Yes, so you have in their line of practice, but not in those specialties that Dr. MacTaggart is schooled and practiced in. In support of this unqualified assertion read his testimonials—not only read them, but investigate the truthfulness of them. Where are the physicians who can remove cancers without pain and cure it beyond peradventure? He does it. Where can you find another physician in Pennsylvania who can remove tumors of even 60 pounds weight without the use of the knife, without pain, and without leaving a scar? Dr. MacTaggart does it. What physician can cure fistulas without cutting or causing the least pain or soreness during treatment? Dr. MacTaggart does it successfully. These are golden truths—golden because it proves beyond dispute that the science of medicine in specialties particularly, is advancing with rapid strides far in the lead of the regular practioner. 1-18-1y.

Candidates.

FOR ASSOCIATE JUDGE,
MORDECAI MILLARD,
CENTRE TOWNSHIP.

The President has appointed Attorney General Olney to the position of Secretary of State, and Judge Judson Harmon of Ohio was appointed Attorney-General.

The wide tire bill, introduced in the legislature by Representative Harvey, of Luzerne county, passed finally last week and is now in the hands of the Governor. It provides as follows:

Section 1. That all persons who shall own and use only draft wagons on the public highways of the commonwealth with tires not less than four inches in width for hauling loads of not less than two thousand pounds weight shall for each year after the passage of this act receive a rebate of one fourth of their assessed highway tax, provided, however, such rebate shall not exceed in any one year five years' labor on the highways for road or highway tax or its equivalent in cash to any one person.

Section 2. Any person complying with the provisions of section one of this act who shall make and subscribe to an affidavit that he, she or they has for the preceding year owned and used only such wagons with tires not less than four inches in width for hauling loads of not less than two thousand pounds in weight on the public highways of this commonwealth shall be credited by the supervisors of highways of their respective districts in which such tax is levied and assessed with one fourth of the road tax assessed and levied on the property of such person. Such credit shall not exceed in any one year five days' labor on the highways for road or highway tax to any one person or its equivalent in cash and any supervisor of highways is hereby authorized to administer such oath.

Section 3. All acts or parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

CHAIRMAN WRIGHT ON STATE POLITICS.

Robert E. Wright Esq., Chairman of the Democratic State Committee, was recently interviewed. He says he has no idea who will be nominated by the Democrats for state treasurer. He will shortly call a meeting of the state executive committee to fix the time and place of holding the state convention. The time for the convention will be somewhere around September 15. Talking of the record made by the Republican legislature, Chairman Wright says the results will be beneficial to the Democratic party, speaking politically. The recklessness, vicious legislation and squandering of the public moneys will arouse the better class of Republicans and may create a strong independent movement in the future in their ranks.

Asked what he thought of the proposed "Lexow" investigation of Philadelphia, Mr. Wright said he felt sure that the independents of Philadelphia, especially the Citizens' municipal association, was in earnest and meant to push ahead the investigation. He was inclined to think, however, that the delay of Chairman Andrews, of the "Lexow" committee, in formally accepting the offer of the Municipal association of $20,000 for the use of the committee, was indicative of insincerity among the friends of Senator Quay.

Chairman Wright does not favor the suggestion recently made that the Democrats should nominate more than one judge this fall for a seat on the superior court bench. He thinks by naming more than one candidate unless bitter local fights of the different candidates would result among the Democrats with no probability of electing more than one judge anyhow. The chairman says he does not know whom Governor Hastings will name as the Democratic representative of the new Bench. He thinks, however, the selection should not come from Philadelphia, but from some other portion of the state, especially from some Democratic locality. When asked whether he thought the Democratic convention should nominate the minority judge whom the governor will appoint this Summer, Mr. Wright said, "not necessarily so." If the appointee fills all the requirements of ability and popularity he should be nominated.

QUAY SNIFFS DISASTER.

SAYS THE REPUBLICANS ARE DRIFTING ON AN UNKNOWN SEA.

Senator Quay was interviewed Saturday evening at his home in Beaver, Pa. "I am not given to discuss national candidates," said Mr. Quay decisively, "but I have no objection to stating my opinion on the issues of the next presidential canvass. I would consider it improper for me to discuss the doings of various gentlemen in New York City at this time, and I have nothing to say as to candidates or politics that will be played at the convention. But I will say that I think the Republican editors and leaders are making a grave mistake in allowing the Democrats to push the silver issue to the front.

"The Democratic party leaders and rank and file are far from being a union on the tariff question. Many of these politicians who favor the president's tariff reform program are not as enthusiastic in their support of it since the last election. They do not know to-day what to say on the question in their next platform. But, divided as they are on the tariff, their confusion on the silver question approaches that of Babel. Representatives of the party in every state of the union have each one a different solution of the financial question. Having fostered the Populist craze as a parasite which they thought would feed on Republican vitality, Mr. Cleveland finds it fattening on the Democratic body the whole country over. Here is where the Republicans have made their mistake by trying to fight the free silver question a year ahead. They have taken up an issue on which they are almost as hopelessly divided as are the Democrats, instead of clinging to the tariff idea, on which they are practically united. Then they allowed the Democrats to call away public attention from the subjects on which Democratic tendency was so clearly revealed. Talking silver, the Republicans have drifted from solid ground to an unknown sea."

A Partisan Dilemma.

The Republican managers in the East are still in much doubt as to how the silver cat may jump. Hence they are extremely anxious to prevent the party from committing itself by any formal and positive declaration against or for the free coinage of silver until they can ascertain which side is likely to win. But they will not be permitted to sit on the fence while the silver controversy is raging among the people. The representatives of the bonanza miners who are hastening to the convention of the National League of Republican Clubs at Cleveland will insist upon a plain declaration in favor of free silver coinage. At the same time some Republicans in the East will earnestly demand that there shall be neither compromise nor temporizing with the champions of cheap money.

This is the dilemma which causes so much embarrassment to the Republican politicians. The manly, straightforward and wise course would be to put the Republican party squarely on the platform of sound money, and have done with it. But the ominous threats that come from the Rocky Mountains and the fear of popular fanaticism for free silver coinage fill the Republican leaders with irresolution. In their distress they will endeavor to persuade the League of Republican Clubs at Cleveland to totally ignore the silver question or take refuge in a declaration for international bimetallism. The gathering at Memphis to-day will show how much contempt the free silver mongers have for such a declaration. In the meantime the irresolution of the Republican leaders on the currency question increases the confidence and courage of the Silverites.

There is no ignoring the danger with which the free silver question threatens the Democratic party. But the Democrats are playing no game of hide-and-seek with an issue of so much importance to the country.

Those among them who favor free silver coinage have at least the merit of sincerity and frankness in defining their position. Friends and foes know just where they may be found. The open, above board discussion in the Democratic party throughout the country promises the most auspicious result in a solution of the question in favor of honest money before the assembling of the Democratic National Convention in 1896. The dodging and irresolution of the Republican leaders, on the other hand, daily increase the embarrassment of their party. A failure of the convention of the Republican League of Clubs at Cleveland to meet the issue would greatly discourage the friends of sound currency, and encourage the Silverites in equal degree. But it has been suggested that these Leagues have nothing to do with questions of political principle, and this is not improbably a very proper conception of the character of such organizations.—Record.

The Passing of the Law-Makers.

Both in what it did and in what it left undone the Legislature which adjourned yesterday, after one of the longest sessions ever held in Harrisburg, has left a record of which the public has the highest reason to be ashamed, and one which should make every self respecting member of either house wish from the centre of his heart might be speedily forgotten. It is a record of public duty neglected, of reckless squandering of the people's money for personal and partisan purposes and of niggardly economy where the highest public interests were at stake.

Worst of all, it is a record of the subordination of the public good to private greed in every instance where the two came in conflict. The repeal of the pipe line bill in the interest of the Standard oil monopoly, the passage of the two bills handing the electric lighting business in the entire commonwealth over to the existing corporations without possible competition from any source, the bills permitting the consolidation of the street railway systems, the greater Pittsburg bill, in short nearly every important bill passed by the Legislature was a private gift to somebody at the public expense.

Its record for the creation of useless offices and for adding to the public burdens by unnecessary public expenditures was equally bad. More than $300,000 was added to the annual pay roll of the State by the creation of new offices and the increase of salaries to officials already provided by law. Appropriations for improvements vital to the welfare of the State, such as the deepening of the Delaware channel, were refused, while hundreds of thousands of dollars were voted by log rolling agreements to institutions of doubtful public utility and which, if necessary at all, should be maintained as private charities.

The constitutional requirement that the State shall be newly apportioned into Congressional, Senatorial, Representative and Judicial districts after each decennial census was ignored, except as regards a Judicial apportionment, which was marred by the creation of a lot of unnecessary new Judges. The failure to pass apportionment bills was without even a partisan excuse, as the State government is Republican in every branch. The Legislature could have passed bills partisan to the last degree and they would have received executive approval.

It would be impossible even to enumerate in a single article of moderate length the sins of omission and commission justly chargeable to the expiring Legislature, and disorderly as its closing scenes were its most welcome act was that of final adjournment. It has left the dominant party divided into two bitterly hostile factions, while the entire party must rest under the stigma of its extravagance and its utter disregard both of its sworn duty and the public welfare. If a worse and more worthless Legislature ever disgraced the State the memory of its misdoings has faded from the public memory. The most unfortunate part of it all is that a few capable and public-spirited members of both houses must share the malodorous reputation of the body of which they were a hopeless minority. —Times.

The Supreme Court of Pennsylvania has just taken the point off an exceedingly fine construction of the Sunday treating law. One Sunday two years ago, just before election, when the police were especially vigilant, a resident of Quakertown visited two friends and gave each one a sip of whiskey from a pocket flask which he carried. He was arrested, convicted, and sentenced to fine and imprisonment on the ground that while he might have given the whiskey to friends in his own house, it was unlawful to furnish it in the home of another. The man was a prominent citizen and managed to escape the imprisonment, but paid the fine and appealed the case. The Supreme Court has just reversed the decision, and declares that it is lawful for a man to treat his friends to a drink on Sunday in any place.—Ex.

ORDINANCE NO. 84.

The following ordinance was passed by the Town Council at a meeting held May 22.

An Ordinance to Provide for an Increase of Indebtedness of the Town of Bloomsburg, in order to fund the Present Indebtedness of said Municipality as Evidenced by Outstanding Orders, and a Judgment of Court in an Action for Tort, for Damages Sustained by W. R. Ringrose, for Personal Injuries Received: and also Purchase Real Estate and the Equipment of a Plant to Furnish Light for the said Town, and to Pay the Expenses Incident to the Opening of Jefferson Street and North Street, Ordained to be Opened by Previous Councils, and for Obtaining Consent of the Electors of said Municipality thereto.

R. Ringrose, together with the interest, costs and expenses incident to the litigation concerning the same, amounting to about $7,000—which outstanding orders and judgment are bearing six per cent. interest, and it is desirable to fund the said indebtedness by the substitution of another form of indebtedness bearing a lower rate of interest.

Therefore be it ordained and enacted by the Town Council of the Town of Bloomsburg, and it is hereby ordained and exacted

D., 1895, between the hours provided by law for holding of general elections, for the purpose of obtaining consent of the Electors of said Town to such increase of indebtedness.

Sec. 5. That the President of the Town Council shall cause to be prepared and distributed printed tickets labelled on the outside "Increase the Debt," and containing on the inside the words "Debt may be Increased" also the words "For Loan to Fund Outstanding Orders and the W. WE CREDIT EVERYONE with common sense; improbable stories never find place under our name in these columns. This week's store news is brim full of good things. Note the things we speak of this week:

BLACK DRESS GOODS.

No mistakes to acknowledge. No blunders to correct. They come from the very best mills in America and Europe. They are stylish, seasonable, and in every way splendid fabrics. Wouldn't be on our counters if they were not. We will let you say how much more they are worth. Prices range from 50c. to $1.75.

UNDERWEAR.

We mean muslin underwear just now in particular. All correctly made, well made, and made of good material. We have never sold as much as now. We are out of one kind just now, but only for a day or two; have it coming as fast as we can. Can't be equaled in town for the prices, as the make up is the very best. Some go for 28c., others higher.

PLISSE.

Just new this season. Oh, how lovely. Nothing cooler or more stylish. Just the thing for these hot summer days that are coming. We have it in all kinds of designs. Light and dark back grounds. Some have the waves in the stripe, others in the body. They all go for 15c. the yard.

DUCKS.

There is nothing more stylish or neater looking than duck suits. Every one wants one for this summer. Dark blue back ground, with white stripe is one. Can you imagine anything prettier? Lots of others, especially the linen colored duck. All just the thing at 12½c.

DOTTED SWISS.

These are being shown and are going to be worn more than ever this year. We have them in plain, and also with the flouncing around the bottom, insertion four inches from the flouncing, full skirt length, all different designs, at $1.00, $1.20, $1.40. Children's at less than half of some of these.

SHOES.

Do you know that we are now carrying the most complete line of anyone in town? Why? Because we never do anything by halves. We can show you more value and style for your money than any where else. A full Russia leather tan shoe for $2.25.

Calls can be sent by telephone to the Exchange Hotel. The charges are reasonable, and a liberal patronage should be accorded.

The State Normal Schools are to be investigated by a Senate committee. That is just what they want. So far as Bloomsburg is concerned, an investigation can only result in showing most conclusively that the statements of members of the legislature concerning these schools are either mistakes or grossly false and scandalous misrepresentations.

The present Money Order and Advice forms which were adopted by the postoffice department last July are to be again changed, this time the order being narrower and the advice being torn from the end instead of from the bottom as at present. The records made by our members Fritz and Creasy, in the legislature, have been straight. They constantly opposed every measure for the creation of new offices, and the increase of salaries, and every other bill that was intended to squander the public money. If there had been more such men in that body the record of profligacy in the recent session would not have been made.

Judge Pershing to Retire.

Illness Takes the Veteran Jurist From the Bench.

It is now certain that Judge Cyrus L. Pershing will resign as President Judge of Schuylkill County because the Judges' Retirement bill failed to pass. He would have resigned some months ago, because of illness, but had been prevailed upon by his friends to hold on, hoping the retirement bill would be made a law, and His Honor would accept its benefit.

Judge Pershing has been ill for several years, and during that time has been unable to perform any duties upon the bench. He is a veteran Democrat and was once the party nominee for Governor of Pennsylvania.

Lemonade is Healthful.

Lemonade drinking is to be encouraged, according to the Journal of Hygiene, which asserts that it is the most perfect of drinks and should be substituted for tea, coffee and alcohol. To make it properly and hygienically this method should be followed: For a quart take the juice of three lemons, using the rind of one of them. Carefully peel the rind very thin, getting just the yellow outside. This cut into pieces and put with the juices and powdered sugar, of which use two ounces to the quart in a jug or jar, with a cover. When the water is at boiling point, pour it over the lemon and sugar. Cover at once and allow to cool.

The Commissioners refuse to be interviewed, but it is said that Norris was asked to resigned.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures.

Almost every neighborhood contains some one who has been helped by Hood's Sarsaparilla. Mrs. J. Tinley Mullen, of Clearfield, Pa., writes under date of Nov. 28th, as follows: "Last winter our oldest boy had the mumps after which he got cold and it turned to diphtheria. We did not think he could get well, and after he did recover he had not sufficient strength to walk. He had no appetite and we got a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla and he began taking it. In three days he was able to eat as well as usual. My husband had catarrh of the throat and the doctors could not relieve him so he took Hood's Sarsaparilla and he has not been troubled since. Last spring I had a pain across my kidneys which troubled me a great deal and I was also afflicted with swelling in my throat: I took two bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla and a box of Hood's Vegetable Pills, and have no such troubles since.

Printing in Colors.

The prices of colored printing inks have gone down with everything else, and it costs no more to do printing in colors than it does in black. THE COLUMBIAN office is prepared to print in any of the following colors: Black, orange, deep cherry, brown lake, light blue, ultra marine blue, bronze red, violet, dark red, green, jacqueminot, purple, garnet, peacock blue. Printing in more than one color is done at a slight advance for the additional press work. tf.

Tortured With a Knife.

MASKED ROBBERS FORCE AN AGED COUPLE TO YIELD.

WILLIAMSPORT, PA., June 8.

Four masked robbers last night broke into the home of aged William Condon, in Gamble township, bound him and his wife with ropes, and tortured the husband with a butcher knife. They ransacked the house, stole every cent of money in it, and then decamped with a horse and wagon stolen from their victim's stable.

The Condons, who are reputed to have considerable wealth hidden at their residence, live in a lonely part of the county. Last night at 10 o'clock they were awakened by sounds on the ground floor of their dwelling. A few minutes later four men entered their bed room, and, after binding Mrs. Condon down in bed, they carried the old man to an adjoining apartment and tied him to a chair.

Then one of the men drew a butcher knife across Condon's throat and threatened to murder him unless he told where his money was concealed.

Condon told where $22 in cash could be found. This the robbers took. Then they forced Mrs. Condon to tell where she kept her money, but from her they secured only $3. The plunderers left the couple tied and gagged. They went to the stable and took a fine horse and wagon, with which they escaped. It was after 1 o'clock when Mrs. Condon managed to work the ropes loose. She fled a mile to the nearest neighbor, gave the alarm, and a pursuing party was organized. By a singular track made by Condon's horse, the robbers were traced to Montoursville, a distance of 15 miles, where the horse was found in a stable.

There all track of the robbers was lost. Mrs. Condon is reported to be in a critical condition on account of fright and fatigue, while her aged husband is also suffering greatly.

Canvasback ducks and terrapins are no longer lavishly spread before the chance guest; they are saved for the Northern markets. When Ponce-de-Leon sought to find
The fountain giving back lost youth.
It may be that he had in mind
That draught which seems to make a truth
Out of the fable ages old,
For drinking it the old grow young;
It is, indeed, a draught of gold,
Surpassing all by poets sung.

The draught meant is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, of course. It is a most potent rejuvenator of the weakened and debilitated system. It drives out all poison, all impurity, enriches the blood, and makes the old and worn out feel young and vigorous. Ponce-de-Leon didn't discover it, but Dr. Pierce did, and he rightly named it when he called it a "Golden Discovery."

Dr. Pierce's Pellets cure permanently constipation, indigestion and headaches. All dealers.

LEGISLATIVE WORK

The following bills were passed on Wednesday of last week:

The house concurred in the senate amendment to the bill providing that none but citizens of the United States shall be employed in the erection of any public work. The senate amendments provide that the provisions of the act shall not apply to any public work on which the cost thereof is met in whole or part by assessment for benefits. The house also concurred in the report of the conference committee on the Woods bill requiring municipalities to purchase existing plants of water companies.

The bill repealing the act of 1878 relative to the division of counties passed finally on a special order. The bill creating the office of cataloguer in the state library at a salary of $1,500, which was defeated Tuesday, was reconsidered after a long debate and then laid aside for further consideration. There is strong opposition to the measure from both sides of the house and the indications are that it will be defeated if it is called up.

The Flinn road bill giving counties the right to construct county roads and to levy a tax for their maintenance passed finally after much debate. The measure provides that the recommendation of the county commissioners shall first be passed upon by the grand jury and approved by the court before the roads can be improved. This is the first of the score or more road bills introduced in this legislature to pass finally. All the other measures of this character were either defeated or killed by committee.

Senator Flinn's bill has passed the senate and now goes to the governor. The Smiley bill providing for county convention of delegates from each township to take into consideration the improvement of the public roads in the respective counties is on the calendar for third reading under the head of postponed bills. Owing to the passage of the Flinn bill Mr. Smiley's proposition will hardly pass.

The bill allowing school authorities to throw open the yards of school houses in the large cities for the use of the school children for recreation purposes was called up out of its order and passed finally without a dissenting vote. These bills were also passed finally. Providing for the manner of ascertaining, determining, awarding and paying compensation and damages in all cases where municipalities may hereatter be authorized by law to take, use and appropriate private property for the purpose of making, enlarging and maintaining public parks within the corporate limits of such municipalities; providing the manner in which foreign railway companies are required to pay their bonus into the state treasury; providing for the abatement of nuisance in cities of the third class; to regulate and license lodging houses in cities; to provide for the annual election of a superintendent and resident physician of the Warren insane hospital; to promote healthiness and cleanliness in and about public schools; to prohibit the erection of temporary structures for fishing in streams and lakes of the state, except Lake Erie; requiring recorders of deeds to certify to the auditor general certain information relative to the limited partnership associations and joint stock associations and providing for the payment of recorders for their services; requiring that stipulations in building contracts shall be recorded in the prothonotary's office in which the law lies; to cede jurisdiction to the United States over certain public roads within the national park at Gettysburg; for the prevention of blindness; imposing a duty on midwives, nurses and other persons having the care of infants and fixing a penalty for neglect thereof; to prohibit illicit conveyance of articles into and from the Pennsylvania industrial reformatory at Huntingdon; creating the office of county controller in counties having more than 150,000 inhabitants and abolishing the office of county auditor in such counties; providing for the employment and compensation of clerks to the several miners' examining boards; to enable citizens chartered under the laws of this state and authorized to hold real estate to hold and convey title which had been held by aliens and corporations authorized by law; providing for the incorporation and maintenance of societies for the improvement of streets and public places.

IN THE SENATE.

House bill to prevent exhibitions of physical or mental deformities in certain public places passed finally and went to the governor.

These house bills passed finally as amended and were returned to the house for concurrence: Amending the act for the protection of the public health; appropriating $349,900 to the soldiers' orphan schools, appropriating $71,000 to the state asylum for the chronic insane; appropriating $11,752 for the expenses of the house elections committee during the session of 1893; Norristown hospital for the insane, $45,000; Midnight mission of Philadelphia, $3,000.

These house bills passed without amendments and were sent to the governor for his consideration: Authorizing the taking of one acre instead of one-half acre of public burial places under certain circumstances for purposes of common school education; providing for daily pay of judges for making return of township elections; authorizing directors of the poor in counties having farm lands in connection with county almshouses to lease the lands for oil and gas purposes.

The governor has approved the bill making an appropriation for the payment of inauguration expenses.

The house bill limiting the forfeiture of policies in life insurance companies and regulating the issuing of said policies was passed finally unamended and was sent to the governor.

Deafness cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed for ever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (cause by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

FOR JUDGE RICE.

The Bar of Luzerne County, at a full meeting called for the purpose on 4th June, 1895, unanimously adopted the following address to the Governor:

To the Honorable Daniel H. Hastings, Governor of Pennsylvania:

The members of the Bar of Luzerne County respectfully commend the Honorable Charles E. Rice for appointment as one of the Judges of the Appellate Court, and herein set forth the reasons that seem to them sufficient to justify their action.

Judge Rice has served as President Judge of Luzerne County, continuously since January 1, 1880, and the record of his conduct and judgment affords the best and most conclusive evidence of his fitness for a higher place. He has shown himself to be a wise and upright judge, filling the scriptural standard, "quick to hear, slow to speak, and slow to wrath." He has known no creed, party, rank, station, influence nor prejudice, but has judged the people righteously without fear or favor. He is in the prime of vigorous manhood, has great capacity and disposition to work, is possessed of a judicial temper that enables him to hear and consider before deciding, and of rare ability to justify his judgments in opinions of remarkable clearness and strength. Of Judge Rice there is but one opinion where he is known. Other judges, lawyers and his fellow citizens regard him as a conspicuously able, impartial and upright judge. He is a Republican, twice elected in a Democratic county, but no one has ever had reason to know from any judicial action to what party he belongs. We suggest that the great anthracite counties, in which a peculiar business is carried on, that furnishes much and important litigation not understandable by judges unlearned in its technicalities, but in which Judge Rice has had large experience, ought to have representation on the bench of the new court, and that he is peculiarly fitted for the place. The Appellate Court will, as we believe, be useful to the State just to the extent that it commands the respect and confidence of the bar and people, therefore no consideration save that of fitness for the place should properly be entertained in selecting the first judges. Upon this basis we present with confidence the name of the Honorable Charles E. Rice, believing that he is without a superior among the Common Pleas Judges of the State, and that his appointment will meet the approval of the bench, bar and people, and add dignity, learning and strength to the Appellate Court.

A Minister's Experience With Heart Disease.

Rev. L. W. Showers, Elderton, Pa.: "For many years my greatest enemy has been organic heart disease. From uneasiness about the heart, with palpitation, it had developed into thumping, fluttering, and choking sensations. Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart gave instant relief. A few bottles have rid me of almost every symptom of heart disease. It is a wonder-worker." Sold by Wm. S. Rishton. 6 15-1y.

THE BOSSED LEGISLATURE.

It is not altogether a Quay legislature. The other bosses divide with him the control of the legislature, but there is little difference between the subserviency of any of these.

The height of the arrogance and impudence of bossship is reached when one man can prevent or halt needed legislation which is moreover commanded by the constitution. There can be no more convincing illustration of the vitiated condition of politics and the low standard of legislation in this state than the exercise of the boss power by one man, who for private reasons prevented the passage of an apportionment bill, who had a part of the legislature under his thumb and who did his utmost to control a majority against the passage of the law which the constitution makes mandatory.

There was not in the recent fight on apportionment much intention or desire to serve the people. It was only a fight between bosses and those who are ambitious to be bosses. Any apportionment made was bound to be partisan and factional. But even under such circumstances it would be on the side of decency to have obeyed the constitution.

It would be still more for decency if the apportionment fight should destroy the power of all the bosses. —Patriot.

SAVED MRS. RENNIE'S LIFE.

Mrs. Jennie Rennie of Virgil, N. Y., had been sick for a year or more with overflow of the gall and ulcers of the stomach. Her physician told her she could not live. Mrs. Rennie's mother had found such benefit from the use of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, that she persuaded her daughter to use it, which she did, with the result that it cured her of these diseases, and she says she was never as well as now. 2t.

A Deserted Wife's Rights.

On Monday last at Harrisburg the supreme court handed down an interesting opinion in the case of Margaret Kerr against the Pennsylvania Railroad Co.

In this case the question was raised as to whether a married woman who has been deserted by her husband can maintain an action, in her own name to recover damages for the death of their minor child. It is alleged in the statement filed that the death of the plaintiff's minor son was caused by the negligence of the defendant, that she is the only person entitled to recover for his death, as her husband, the father of the boy, had deserted her and her son more than eight years before the commencement of the suit, and through drunkenness and profligacy has failed and refused to provide in any way for either of them.

Justice Fell, who writes the opinion, says:

"There can be no donbt of the power of the plaintiff to sue without joining her husband to recover any claim due her in her own right. The act of May 4, 1855, conferred upon her the common law, right and duties of her husband in relation to their child She could have placed him at work and have received his wages, and was bound to the reciprocal duties of maintenance and education.

Her legal relation to her son was the same as if her husband had been dead. It is out of this relation that the right to recover in an action for the death of a child grows. The measure of damages is the pecuniary loss sustained, and the loss arises because of the right of the parent to the child's earnings until he is of age, or of the expectation of pecuniary advantage after the minority of the child because of the continued existence of the family relation. The father here had forfeited all right to his son's earnings; the mother alone was entitled to them. She alone could sue for and recover them. The pecuniary loss resulting from the child's death was wholly hers. If the father had not been living at the time of the son's death, the wife's right to maintain this action could not be questioned; if she had not been living at that time it is doubtful whether he could have recovered, because the family relation between him and his son had ceased to exist and he had forfeited all right to his son's earnings.

In this case the wife alone has a claim upon which a recovery in damages can be sustained. Her right should not be defeated by the misconduct of her husband. Upon the trial she will have to establish her right to maintain the action in her own name or fail. In the absence of her husband, or of notice to him, his right to participate in the distribution of the fund recovered cannot be finally determined against him. Whatever right he has may be preserved by the court controlling the distribution until he shall have had a hearing."

FASHION NOTES.

Bridal trousseaux are not as extensive as they once were.

Women wear now the wide lace collars that used to be monopolized by infants.

Old-fashioned straw "flats," trimmed with falling lace, will be among summer hats.

Black lace shoulder capes are among those conspicuously exhibited at the shops, and are very stylish.

Crush collars of open embroidery, through which ribbon is drawn and tied, are a novelty on fine nightgowns.

La France roses, lilies-of-the-valley and bows of Dresden ribbon are used in trimming stylish brown straw shapes for young girls.

Among odd combinations in vogue this season are lavender and very faint green; bleuet and yellow; green and pink; corn-color and old-rose; Nile and wisteria-pink.

Jersey fronts and vests are seen with the new sailor suits for boys. The natty suits consist of a short jacket and long trousers, and are made of dark blue or red serge, of striped denim or of twilled cotton materials.

The black and white combination is very fashionable this year, striped and checked materials in this blending coming in for much favor. At a recent sale a splendid quality of black-and-white checked wash silk, twenty-three inches in width, was sold for twenty-five cents a yard.

Virtue of Tomato Leaves.

A statement comes from South America that a singular property of tomato leaves has been discovered by a fruit grower. Having cut down some tomato vines, he used them as a mulch around his peach trees. He soon discovered that the curculio, which was destroying his fruit, had abandoned the trees surrounded by tomato vines, which proved a perfect protection, not only against the curculio, but against other noxious insects. He found, also, by steeping in water some fresh leaves of the tomato, and sprinkling the infusion upon other plants, the innumerable insects which covered them were driven away. Some gardeners have tried the remedy, some by accident and others by intention, and their successes were remarkable. One gentleman had his apple trees ravaged by the curculio until last year, when he secured a splendid crop. He knows no cause for his exemption from the curculio, except the tomato plants that were grown for the first time among his trees.

The Cranberry as a House Plant.

The common cranberry is a most attractive plant when properly cultivated in pots, and can endure a good deal of neglect which would be fatal to other plants. It only needs to be kept cool and moist. A compost of muck and sand is the proper material for potting it in. Although usually regarded as aquatic in its nature, it will not do to have the soil saturated with water. What it requires is that water should be within reach of its roots, and that the soil shall be one through which water can rise readily by capillary attraction. Let the pot stand in about an inch of water and it will thrive better than in any greater depth. The cranberry roots readily from cuttings, or it can be propagated by bending down the sprays and covering them with the moist compost. It is beautiful at all times of the year, and especially so after the fruit commences to ripen. Its red berries will remain on the vine for a long time and are highly ornamental.

Woman's Work in Music.

At the Cotton States and International Exhibition, to be opened at Atlanta, Ga., on September 1, great prominence is to be given to women's work in the musical field. A women's building of beautiful design is to be erected. One of the rooms, spacious and appropriately decorated, is to be devoted exclusively to music. It is intended to display in it as many photographs as can be obtained of women composers, singers and instrumentalists. Musical literature will be provided for the perusal of visitors. Compositions by women will be made a special feature.

SPRING FURNISHINGS IN BLUE.

A Color Well Adapted to Summer Season and Summer House.

It is not every housekeeper, says the New York Times, who knows the good points in spring furnishings. When a summer cottage is to be replenished in various items, or a new apartment which will be occupied during the summer months made habitable, with an effect of coolness to be secured, the first consideration should be that of color. Select those tints which insure physical repose to the inmate. For this nothing is better than blue. It is restful to the material eye, and grateful to the mental vision in its suggestion of coolness, only needing graceful lines to be wholly satisfactory.

This season the shops overflow with Java prints for curtains in delicious hues in blue, in which vines, flowers, disks, stars, stripes and large dots prevail; they are perfect in their way. They come by the yard, or can be purchased in pairs at the low price of $7. Every kind can be secured to meet all requirements.

To furnish a room used at times for company, where space is limited, attention may at first be given to the lounge-bed, which will give to the apartment length and breadth if the cover is of blue in delicate colors. Light tones of small rooms are desirable. On the couch place some eight or ten pillows; all in complimentary tones, which will harmonize with the cover. For a floor covering in the centre, add a thick Japanese rug of blue effect, the pattern of which is well covered.

In furniture it is immaterial as to the wood, so that the covering proper is the main decoration, and for selection nothing is better than the Morris velvets or Persian prints, preserving the tint of blue throughout.

For a summer window, where the sun is apt to be an intruder, have a low sash curtain of Madras figures of light blue, in dots or bowknots. This should be fastened by a small brass rod, and so easily adjusted that it can be swept aside at will. Over it place some good fretwork, painted black, which should fit exactly the upper frame. If in this window there is a broad sill, a box of vines and blossoms will add a picturesque touch. For the few bits of harmonizing pottery which the room needs, some of the excellent imitations of Dutch delft now in the market will satisfy the artistic taste and not deplete the moderate purse. At the doors, portieres can be selected in different styles, the Bayaldere being the most popular. Although of cotton, the stripes have a wool effect. They come showing dots, disks and stars below each stripe, and cost from 75 cents to $1.50 a yard.

Finally, the tea table, with its harmonizing cover of linen drawnwork over blue sateen or a bit of old French damask, with fringe to match, completes the picture.

Blue is peculiarly adapted for country rooms. Lectures on physical culture say the tint is restful and influences repose for the human frame, allaying nervousness and aiding peaceful rural life to charm and soothe.

Wonder Why It Is?

"There's one funny thing you women do," said a trousered critic the other day, "that I can't see any reason for. You never date your letters. That is, mighty few of you do. I've seen a good deal of feminine correspondence in my time and it's backed me up in this observation. Take any batch of say a dozen letters written by a woman and it's dollars to doughnuts that ten of them, possibly eleven, will not contain the least sign of a date. Even the most strong-minded of your sex are guilty of this oversight.

"The oddest part of the thing is that a woman's desk is litterally deluged with calendars of every description, from the fanciest arrangement of satin and ribbon to a matter-of-fact calendar advertisement.

"What do they want with these calendars if they don't use them? Why don't they use them?"

"Why?"—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Safes Made of Cement.

A safe constructed of cement with steel wire netting placed in between was tested by order of the Reichsbank, the German Government's banking establishment. The question to be decided was whether it is practical to build vaults of this material for safety against fire. A safe was placed upon a pyre of logs drenched with kerosene, which after being set on fire, kept the safe for half an hour exposed to a heat of about 1,800 degrees Fahrenheit; that is, a heat in which iron will melt. Two hours after the safe was opened, and the contents—silk paper, draft blanks and a maximum thermometer—were found to be absolutely uninjured. The maximum thermometer showed that within the safe the temperature at no time during the test rose above 85 degrees. This seems to prove that cement safes within burglar-proof steel vaults fill all the requirements that can be possibly expected.

Mowed a Fishing Pond.

The approach of the warm wave recalls the story how M. E. Wallace fooled the pickerel in the upper lake. The weeds were very heavy, and every time he hooked a twelve-pounder the fish would jump into the weeds, tangle the lines and get away. Mr. Wallace stood this for some time. Finally he rowed ashore and hired from a farmer a mowing machine and two horses. Divesting himself of his garments he devoted the day to mowing the whole upper lake, cutting the weeds close to the bottom. The next day he caught twelve fourteen-pound pickerel, every one of which was badly scratched from swimming over the stubble.—Minneapolis Journal.

Cooked Bananas.

The liking for cooked bananas seems to be spreading rapidly. They are excellent fried as doughnuts are fried, in a deep vessel of boiling fat. These may be eaten simply, or with a little glaze of sugar and rum, or sugar and lemon. Another way to serve them is to bake them in their jackets, and eat them with sugar and cream. The fruit should be well ripened and the oven fairly hot. Ten minutes will usually suffice to cook them.

FLORENCE NIGHTINGALE AT 75.

On Questions of Charity She Is Always Ready to Give Advice.

On the 15th day of this month she celebrates her seventy-fifth birthday—as great a woman and as great a public benefactor, and as much of a heroine as she was forty years ago, when she went forth from her comfortable home in England, not as a mere nurse to attend to the wants of the wounded and dying British soldiers in the Crimea, but as a fearless organizer of a great field hospital system, which the British War Office authorities, staff officers and generals had looked upon as a mere matter of afterthought in the preliminary arrangements of one of the most difficult campaigns in the history of the civilized world.

Miss Nightingale loathes anything in the form of publicity. To journalists she never opens her mouth, nor ever her door, but to any one who seeks advice on a question affecting the interests of the sick or those who nurse them, a hearty welcome and a word of encouragement and counsel are always cheerfully accorded. She has a very comfortable home on one of the best streets in the West End of London, but spends most of the year at Claydon House in Buckinghamshire, the home of her sister, Lady Verney.

She is a tall woman, rather stout, with gray hair, and fine, open face. Although a great sufferer she does not show a trace of it. She has not known what it is to be without pain for many years. Her features are finely modeled, while her hands and feet are very small. Her voice is low and musical. She often reads aloud, and sometimes she hums a song or a hymn. She is very devout, and an omnivorous reader. Her room is littered with newspapers, magazines, writing paper, pencils and letters. She is always cheerful.

Miss Florence Nightingale has not only done grand service to the human race by her labors on behalf of the sick and wounded, and of sanitation, but she has also served her sex probably more than any woman of the past or present. In her life we have an object lesson which should be taken to heart by all womankind.—Ladies' Home Journal.

SAYINGS OF CHILDREN.

A boy in Waterville has a dog named Porter. The other day he proposed an improvement. "Mamma," he said, "I love God so much that I want to name Porter after him."

It was a Boston girl who interrupted a rather grown-up conversation with: "Say, mamma, is everybody wicked?" "Why, no my child," answered mamma. "Why do you ask?" "Because you haven't said a nice thing about anyone to-day."

During the Charleston earthquake a blind girl was in the street, when a huge dog put its paws on her shoulder. A bystander heard her praying: "Oh, Lord Jesus, I don't know what it is, but if it is a lion, please shut its mouth. Don't let it bite me."

Potatoes in a New Style.

To prepare casserole of potatoes pare eight good-sized potatoes, cover them with boiling water and cook for half an hour. Then pour off all the water and mash the potatoes until fine and light. Add two tablespoonfuls of butter and a teaspoonful and a half of salt, and when these ingredients have been beaten into the potato add a generous half cupful of milk. Have ready a tin mould, warm and well buttered, and pack the potato into it. Let the casserole stand for five minutes, then turn it out on a platter. In order to be successful one must not be sparing of butter when greasing the mould. A charlotte russe or jelly mould answers well for holding the potato. A pretty way to serve the casserole is to turn it out upon a buttered tin sheet, cover with beaten egg and brown in the oven.—New York World.

Summer Floor Covering.

For the summer there is no better floor covering than matting. It is easily kept clean and is fresh and neat in appearance. When the floor is covered with matting, of course rugs are a necessity, but this does not necessarily mean great expense, for the Japanese rugs, which may be bought from $2 up, are, many of them, as rich in coloring as if they were Persian. In taking care of matting, it is not well to wash it often. When it does need brightening up boil together for one hour two quarts of bran and four of water. Strain this, pressing all moisture out of the bran. Add two quarts of cold water and two tablespoonfuls of salt to the strained mixture. Wash the matting thoroughly with this and rub dry with a clean cloth. The result is sure to be gratifying.

Fashionable Stationery.

The paper most used in social correspondence is white parchment finish, and the preferred sizes are the well-known octave and billet; the envelopes are square with pointed flaps. Square note sheets with oblong envelopes in tints or colors are simply fads of the moment. Good taste dictates plain white paper and white envelopes for feminine notes.

Salt Codfish.

Take half a pint of shredded codfish, one tablespoonful of flour, two tablespoonfuls of butter, a gill of cream and some butter. Put the butter into the chafing dish, and when melted add the flour, stirring constantly; add the fish, which has been soaked half an hour in tepid water, and add the cream and pepper. Let it simmer ten minutes, stirring all the time.

Forcemeat.

Any cold meat, such as veal, chicken or ham, may be used, chopping it very fine. For each cup of meat take the yolk of one egg, one-fourth of a cup of cracker or bread crumbs, one tablespoonful of chopped parsley, a pinch of thyme, and pepper and salt to taste. Mix the dry ingredients together, add the egg beaten slightly, and when well mixed stuff the onions. Butter in the proportion of one tablespoonful melted may be added if desired.

Don't work a horse all day and drive him all night.

THE NEW MAN.

Incident of the Day When Women Shall Carry the Latchkeys.

"Er—Mildred," he said, a trifle nervously, as his better half laid down the morning's paper, and, lighting a cigarette, prepared for her departure for the city; "Mildred, dear, do you think you could spare me a little money to-day?"

His wife glanced at him impatiently. "What, again, George?" she said, "why, I only gave you your housekeeping allowance on—let me see—Thursday, wasn't it? Really, some of you men seem to think we women are made of money."

"You forget, my dear," he remarked, "there are the girl's wages, and the water rate, and the children both want new boots."

"Didn't I give you the money for that?" she asked.

"No, dear, that was for the flannel for little Milly's warm petticoats I'm making. Besides, dear, I—don't be angry, will you?—I saw such a cheap pair of trousers at the winter clearance sale yesterday that I couldn't resist buying them, and you know I have hardly a rag to my back."

"Always your cry, George," she said angrily. "Really your extravagance in dress is something sinful; it's a pity you haven't got to go and earn the money; you'd know its value then. Here, take this, and for goodness sake do try and pay some of your household bills with it and not frivol the money away on a lot of trash."

"There's a dear, good, darling wife," he cried joyfully. "Let me help my Mildred on with her coat," he added, following her into the hall. "What time will you be home?"

"Can't say, I'm sure," she answered. "I've got a lot to attend to at the office to-day, and I shall drop into the club for an hour or so after. So you needn't wait dinner."

"Oh, that'll be nice!" he responded, "I've got my woman coming to wash to-day, and the girls and I are going to put up clean curtains and things. Give me a kiss, dearest! There—there's your 'bus going now."

And as the breadwinner dashed out after the passing vehicle George blew her a parting kiss and went upstairs to bathe the children.—Chicago Tribune.

Profit in Sheep.

A writer thus sums up the sources of profit in sheep: There is the wool, the mutton, the young lambs, the sales for breeding purposes and the enrichment they give the land. Further, they are consumers of weeds, which are so constant a nuisance, and they live upon these and other things, which other animals refuse.

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS

BENTON.

The Exchange hotel here is very lively at present, Landlord Kelchner has taken a baby girl to board, which arrived last week. Shorty is kept busy setting em up.

Our ball team is preparing to meet the Millville club here next Saturday, and a lively game may be expected, as both are very well matched in that line.

Chas. Appleman who is engaged painting at Bloomsburg spent Sunday at home.

The addition to Alfred McHenry's store is completed now, and has a fine appearance.

C. Vandemark is enjoying a large trade in green goods. He has in stock a variety of garden plants which he sells very reasonable.

Elwood Knouse is head quarters for strawberries, as he keeps them in stock through out the season.

C. E. Benton spent Saturday and Sunday with relatives at Mt. Grove, he has leased his meat market to Crosley Bros., of this place, who will conduct it in the future. Both are good business men, and without a doubt will have a large trade.

The Jr. Ball Club of Millville was here Saturday and played the small boys, and came out victorious again. Well, it seems that Millville has been a borough too long for Benton, we will have to give in.

Ira McHenry and Will Kline of the McHenry House swapped teams last week and by the looks of Will and Ira, you would think both were beat.

Fred Wood has opened a harness shop in Kemp's Block and is prepared to do all kind of work in that line at very reasonable prices.

Jamison City was well represented here on Saturday, many came down for a day off while others were here on business.

Jack Wright is agent for the Liberty Bicycle at this place and also does repairing. He is an expert machinist having been in that business for a number of years. He can do as good a job on a wheel right here in Benton, as those in the city.

THE WEATHER SIGNALS.

EXPLANATION OF THE FLAG AND WHISTLE SIGNALS ADOPTED BY THE UNITED STATES WEATHER BUREAU AND DISPLAYED BY J. M. GIDDING & CO.

The Weather Bureau furnishes, when practicable, for the benefit of the general public and those interests dependent to a greater or less extent upon weather conditions, the "Forecasts" which are prepared daily, at 10 a. m. and 10 p. m. for the following day. These weather forecasts are telegraphed to observers at stations of the Weather Bureau, railway officials, and many others, and are so worded as to be readily communicated to the public by means of flags or steam whistles The flags adopted for this purpose are five in number, and of the form and dimensions indicated below:

Number 1, white flag, six feet square, indicates clear or fair weather. Number 2, blue flag, six feet square, indicates rain or snow. Number 3, white and blue flag, (parallel bars of white and blue,) six feet square, indicates that local rains or showers will occur, and that the rainfall will not be general. Number 4, black triangular flag, four feet at the base and six feet in length, always refers to temperature; when placed above numbers 1, 2 or 3 it indicates warmer weather; when placed below numbers 1, 2, or 3 it indicates colder weather; when not displayed the indications are that the temperature will remain stationary, or that the change in temperature will not vary more than four degrees from the temperature of the same hour of the preceding day from March to October, inclusive, and not more than six degrees for the remaining months of the year. Number 5, white flag, six feet square, with black square in centre, indicates the approach of a sudden and decided fall in temperature. This signal is not to be displayed unless it is expected that the temperature will fall to forty-two degrees, or lower, and is usually ordered at least 24 hours in advance of the cold wave. When number 5 is displayed, number 4 is always omitted.

When displayed on poles the signals should be arranged to read downward; when displayed from horizontal supports a small streamer should be attached to indicate the point from which the signals are to be read.

Miserable Sinner, but Not the Worst.

At a revival in a country town the invitation was given for any one who wished to live a better life and desired the prayers of the congregation to rise. A man rose. The congregation was jubilant and noisy with "amens." Looking about him, he said:

"There is no need of making such a fuss and noise. I ain't the worst man that ever lived.—From Judge.

You've seen and heard the loud voiced man at the big railway stations, calling the trains. He tells where each one is going and keeps people from taking wrong trains — if they pay attention.

One's physical feelings are bodily "train callers." They announce the starting of all trains of disease. Most all trains of disease lead to consumption, because consumption is a blood disorder and because the blood must be poor or impure before any disease can make much headway.

The secret of health is to keep the blood pure and full of strength. When a man or woman loses flesh and vitality, there is something wrong in the blood. The start of it is likely to be in the stomach or bowels, and if they are put in order the trouble gradually stops. Consumption is a germ disease, but if the blood is good, and keeps the lungs strong and healthy, the germs cannot find a place to lodge and are cast off. If there's a weak spot, the germ will find it. Even after that, strong and pure blood will strengthen the lungs so that they can gradually rid themselves of the germs. It is by creating strength and purity that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures consumption and other diseases. It makes one gain flesh — not flabby, oily fat, but sound, firm, useful, healthy flesh. Hundreds of patients have testified to its wonderfully beneficial effects in many diseases and especially in incipient consumption.

That's because it's the "CELLULOID" Collar. Its original cost was 25 cts. and it cost the wearer nothing afterwards to keep it clean. When soiled, simply wipe off with sponge or wet cloth.

These collars and cuffs are waterproof, and are the only waterproof goods made with an interlining of linen; therefore the only ones that can last and give absolute satisfaction. Every piece of the genuine is stamped as follows:

TRADE CELLULOID MARK.

Refuse anything that is not so marked, and if your dealer has not got the right kind send direct to us, enclosing amount, and we will mail you a sample postpaid. Collars 25 cts. each. Cuffs 50 cts. pair. Give size, and state whether stand-up or turned-down collar is wanted.

Senator Cochran's Son Shot.

Garrett Cochran, son of Senator J. Henry Cochran, of Williamsport, and Frederick Pierson Ohl, of New Castle, Pa., both students in the freshman class at Princeton college, were shot and dangerously, if not mortally, wounded at 10 o'clock Saturday night by a negro named John Collins.

The shooting took place in an alley in front of the side entrance to Anderson's hotel. Collins is a laborer, 26 years old. He had had words with the students and in a fit of rage drew a twenty-two caliber revolver and fired first at Ohl, then at Cochran and again at Ohl. All the shots took effect. The bullet fired at Cochran struck him in the mouth and traveled to the base of his right ear. Both of Ohl's wounds were in the stomach. The students fell to the sidewalk and were quickly removed to the college hospital. Collins was placed under arrest by Marshall R. B. Tyrell. He took his prisoner to the town lockup.

A report gaining circulation that both Ohl and Cochran were dying, the students grew very excited and demands that the negro be lynched went up on every side. "Hang him, hang him," was an exclamation repeated frequently. At the lockup it was heard that some of the students had procured a rope and were marching there in a body. Marshall Tyrell, fearing for the prisoner's safety, handcuffed him and removed him to a piece of woods about a quarter of a mile from the college, and kept him there until after midnight. By that time the excitement had subsided and a conveyance was obtained and Tyrell and two officers took Collins to the county jail at Trenton. Stephen Downs, also colored, was lodged in the county jail at the same time. He was in the company of Collins immediately before the shooting took place.

Ohl and Cochran, with some other students, it seems, were walking down Witherspoon street a little before 10 o'clock. Collins and Downs approached them from an opposite direction, and Collins used insulting language, directing it toward the students. The latter rejoined sharply and there was considerable profanity. A few minutes later Cochran and Ohl met Collins in the alley alluded to. Downs was a few feet away. Collins stood in the door of the hotel bar and reviled the students and dared them to enter. They undertook to do so when the negro whipped out his weapon and began the firing. This is the story of the affair as given by persons who were on the scene soon after the shooting. The negroes would see no reporters in the county jail. Downs bears the reputation of being a peaceable man, and he claims that the students assaulted them with fence rails.

Ohl died on Tuesday but Cochran is improving.

Judge Dunham accompanied by his attorney, Frank Ingham, Esq., of Laporte, was in town on Monday and Tuesday looking over the ground in the judicial contest proceedings and getting ready for the battle which commences here on the 17th. Witnesses are being subpoenaed by both sides and preparations are being made for a battle when business commences week after next. The contestants seem confident of victory, and if they throw out anywhere near the number of votes they claim they will, there can be no question as to the result. —Tunkhannock Democrat.

WEATHER FOR JUNE.

MR. HICKS PROMISES SOME SEVERE STORMS DURING THE MONTH.

Irl Hicks, the weather prophet whose forecasts are looked for each month with interest, and, on the part of some, considerable faith, offers the following for June: Early in the month expect phenomenal rains and local waterspouts, much hail, lightning and thunder, with dangerous gales and tornadoes in many localities. Extreme warmth will prevail during the storms, sudden drops in temperature afterwards to very cool.

About the 21st of June is always a time of electrical and storm perturbations beyond normal. The reactionary period being central at that time this month, increases the probability of great electrical and other disturbances—the centre of the Venus equinox falling just in time to aggravate and prolong the storms. About the 15th to the 19th Vulcan will join the disturbers, and his presence will be detected by extreme change to warmer, ending in varied and general storms of lightning and thunder.

About the 22nd and 23rd look for very warm weather, and possibly for some of the most active storms of the month. Note the effect of the moon's perigree on the 24th, and see the greater disturbance is about that time, or at the new moon on the 22nd. Very cool weather for the season is likely to follow the storms at this time. The last period of the month is central, with the moon's first quarter, on the 29th. This indicates that the temperature will be high, and storms will be on their eastward march as June goes out. See if such is not the case, in a progressive way, over the country generally.

That many storms will take place in June, seems inevitable. None of them may be dangerous, but no harm can come for preparing for the worst. Overwhelming rains may not come, but the chances are good for such. Look for much—for more than you will see in the following month, and prepare in every way to make the best of it. For instance, have all your broken, cracked cisterns repaired, connect and repair your spouts, and clean out and strengthen the embankments of your ponds.
